“ Grandma she gave the best hugs. When my dad was living with her and helping I would always try and stop over at least once a week. She would always try and feed me. Always had coffee on. Coffee always tasted better at Grandma's. I would always ask and reminisce about her and my grandpa's relationship. Relationships don't last like that anymore. She would always tell me honey I would marry grandpa and do it all over again. How sweet is that? Pretty amazing I think. I love and miss you grandma. Tell everyone we said hi.

“ One of my favorite memories is of my Dad, Leonard LaCourse Sr. and the love he had for his sister, my Aunt Audrey. Especially after Uncle Louie passed my Dad made regular visits at lunchtime to Aunt Audrey. Visits included a gift of a bouquet of flowers purchased at Darrell's Market. Aunt Audrey prepared a luncheon fit for a king, with favorite lunch meats, breads and baked beans (always Dad's favorite). Best of all is they valued the time they spent together as sister and brother with lots of stories filled with love and laughter. Rest in peace Aunt Audrey.
