“ My grandmother was a strong special very protective women over me. She would hold me close as she rock me humming the gentle verse of amazing grace over and over again. Her eyes were as beautiful as the ocean and her hair the jet black of the sea on a dark night. She was beautiful all around. She was my grandmother. She was one of the most gentle loving people I never known. Her love was so strong it will live countless of years after her departure in our heart soul and everything we are she was our grandmother. Til the end she still reached out with love in all the pain she must of experienced to let me know she was here and she til the end was still trying to protect me. As my heart weights very heavy today her memory will leave threw the century's after her death because her love for family was that strong. I ask only that my lord protect her as she protected me always.
