“ I have many memories of my step-brother from our childhood together. He was a funny, energetic guy. He loved spending time outdoors when we were kids, whether it was just playing around in the woods or riding dirt bikes through the nearby trails. Those are the things I'll remember of him.

It's always sad when someone leaves us too soon, and that's all the more severe when they're a family member. Eric was always searching for answers, and it was a difficult task. I know that deep down, all he wanted was what we all want: to be happy.
