“ Sorry to read of your lose. Death is an enmey whenever it strikes. The words found at Rev 21:3,4 are a comfort as it offers a hope for those we have lost in death. My hope is this is a comfort to you as well now and in the months ahead. And my sincere sympathy to you at this time.

“ My dear sweet friend and confidante Loraine. I will never forget when you told me I was sicker than my alcoholic husband and how angry I became. I thought "of all the nerve" at that time. I am so happy you guided my sick but into healthier thinking. You were there for me when I wanted to lay in bed and cry after Joe's death and again.....You told me to get up out of that bed. Thank you for that. You helped me become the strong independent woman I am today. I am so thankful for your life my friend and what you mean to me yet today. Happy journey and tell all those guys who left us down here on earth that it is ok. I love you my friend and thank you for being there for me no matter what.
