“ I came to know Tim in the thralls of his disease and we worked together to help each other. This I know, that man knew he made mistakes in the past and he dealt with them, he understood people and life well before he died. He loved his wife Yvonne beyond words as well as his adopted grandson and kids. I pray his daughter seeks a higher road, she sounds so capable. He was always concerned about her. I hope I can learn from his determination and will to fight for what he had left. I know he never got to go cross country on his camping trip to see his siblings but rest assured he is with all of you now. God Bless you Timmy!?”

This dove signifies you are now pain free. Spread your wings and fly. You will be missed by many. I think about all of our high school memories and reconnecting in the last few months. My thoughts and prayers go out to Yvonne, your children, grandchildren, and the rest of your family but I also know you will be watching over them and keep them safe. You fought hard for a LONG time and never gave up until the end. You showed courage when most would have given up. You never let your disease take over and for that I admire you most. Yvonne started calling you "Superman" on Facebook, I understand why. Safe travels my friend.
